A New Brand of FF&E Sourcing DOTI Sources Globally for Hospitality and Commercial Clients

[Ponte Vedra Beach, FL] – DOTI Global Sourcing is redefining furnishings, fixtures, and equipment (FF&E) sourcing for operators, space planners, and end-users of hospitality and commercial buildings through its continued expansion. President Jim Evanger asserts that an innovative new approach to FF&E procurement is tailor made for its target client. “People in charge of specifying, designing, or procuring furnishings are looking for variety and budget containment today,” said Evanger.

DOTI has been in business since 1983, and began as a small design studio targeting upscale consumers with home decorating needs. Since that time, it has participated in the opening of over 30 retail furnishings stores from coast to coast. This expansion enabled it to develop relationships with diverse manufacturers of product from around the world that represent everything from office systems furnishings, hotel guest room and common area furniture, window treatments, top-of-bed, mattresses, accessory items, carpet, lighting, and even technology solutions.

The company’s unique approach mixes its sourcing capabilities with experienced interior design talent when the client has more needs. “Clients expect the process of designing and procuring furnishings to be easy,” said Evanger. “DOTI breaks the mold of the traditional FF&E process by becoming a project manager on the client’s behalf to find the best value – regardless of the manufacturer. We aren’t tied into one or two brands, but instead search all of our sources for the best solution for our client.”

DOTI works closely with clients in their facility to assure the project reflects the desired style while staying true to the budget guidelines that are established up-front with no surprises. Currently, the company is doing major installations in Atlanta, Kansas City, San Francisco, Denver, and Chicago to name a few. Please visit www.DOTI.com to learn more.
