Sustainable Furnishings Choices

DOTI Provides Sustainable Furniture to its Clients

[Ponte Vedra Beach, FL] – DOTI Global Sourcing is installing furnishings for hospitality and commercial building clients that desire an eco-friendly option as they build or remodel their facility. Jim Evanger, DOTI’s President, says that the need is increasing. “Every day we hear about how the need for eco-friendly solutions are important to our clients,” says Evanger, “it’s not just about the lighting and waste discharge any longer.”

DOTI sources furnishings from around the world, depending on the desired solution for its client. The products could include everything from office systems furnishings, hotel guest room and common area furniture, window treatments, top-of-bed, mattresses, accessory items, carpet, lighting, technology solutions and other needs associated with furnishings, fixtures, and equipment (FF&E).

“One of the first questions we get asked is where the wood or materials come from that make up the furniture”, says Evanger. “We have manufacturers that can ensure that the wood was legally harvested from responsibly managed forests.” In addition, DOTI can provide low to no volatile organic compounds (VOC’s) in furniture finishes by substituting water-based finishes that do not release harmful pollutants into the air of the facility.

Transportation is the second major contributor to greenhouse gasses. DOTI can source furniture closest to where the end user resides, and use raw materials that were sourced within 500 miles of their manufacturing facility. Buying local will cut emissions and support local economies.
